A first phase of work that has allowed us to meet more than 60 professionals and more than 100 boys and girls in Milan, Madrid, Brasov and Nicosia. Points of view and direct experiences are emerged from workshops and debates. Moreover we collected advices and suggestions about how to improve the conditions of youngsters involved in civil, criminal and administrative judicial proceedings in several Europe areas.

From 25th to 27th May 2016, the project team will meet in Romania in order to work on two goals.

First, we will have a consultation among all partners involved focused on the Guidelines for the Juvenile Justice, than we will realized a document - addressed to the European Council - that will propose integrations and enhancement in the guidelines.

Beside, the partners will collaborate with dot dot dot in order to design and create the communications tools that will be used in schools and youth centers to reflect with thousand of young people on justice and rights.
